About This Game

Follow the Indie RPG Spirit in Search of The Memory of Eldurim

You know the feeling of setting sail beyond the edge of the map, beyond the boundaries of knowledge? So do we. One reason we love video games is that they offer fresh lands to discover.

Discover a new world, its adventures, and its haunting story as you play The Memory of Eldurim. As Liminal Games, an indie studio, we make games specifically for people with their own indie spirit.

People like you--those who long to discover.

Cash in your creativity. Fighting isn't so much spam-clicking. It's more of a dance. You will need to recognize openings and to strike in particular ways. You have to think to fight. At least, if you want to win.

Shape a civilization. Save a town from eradication--or eradicate one yourself. Purge a city of thieves--or foment anarchy through political assassinations. Lead or abandon an exodus. Fund a town hall, troubadour's guild, refugee district...or buy your own estate. Cultivate alliances...or the opposite.

Change the game through the forums. We listen to your input because we believe that you, like us, deserve to be heard. One day, you might tell your friends about how your comment changed the magic system. As proof, you might show them the relic you received in thanks. A communal development strategy should be exciting for all.

Explore an expansive and intricate world. The CRYENGINE makes for some stunning visual scenes. Experience them through your travels across this new world--its sleepy forests, blistering deserts, glittering tundra, submarine ruins, and more.

Seek the Memory of Eldurim. Everyone is missing something, but most cannot remember what it is. It is their only hope against darkness. Seek the Tree of Light on your quest to save the world, rule it, or destroy it.

Count on RPG essentials. We didn't discard the strengths of the Open World, RPG genre, we simply took them as our starting point. The vision detailed above (that you can add to on the forums) stands on solid RPG essentials. For example, of course your character can level up, but not through a cliché system.

For a Putt-Putt game its meh. Way shorter than Saves the Zoo or joins the circus to me. It has lots of variety due to its multiple areas. Still a good game I would wait for a sale though. I think Circus is the best though the mini games were great. 6/10.. That Good Good Shmup. Totally love this game!

Pro:

- + Challenging AI
- + Fruits, Colours and Fun
- + Split-Screen up to 4 players! (very rare mode on nowadays games)

Cons:

- Some localization issues
- Online mode still in development, I wanna beat my friends online! :)
- Normally I'd say "price too high" but since there are a very huge amount of contents (most of them will be unlocked through EA) I think the price will be fine if all promises will be maintained.. good game but you need to update the game because i see a lot problems. A nice add-on for flavor.. Gorgeous, interesting, and the puzzles were fairly easy. All it needs to be perfect is the addition of achievements.. While this is Early Access game, that does not really excuse how poor the game actually is. For starters, there are Menu Options which cannot be clicked... such as Controls. I mean, if it wasn't ready yet... maybe not include it until it is? And to be fair, the ability to change options is kind of important. And if Solo does not work... maybe leave it out until it is ready? The gameplay is nothing special really, very standard respawning team-based FPS. However, the only outstanding point in comparison to other similar games is that you can get spawn camped. Not necessarily a good thing, but still... it's unique?

Apart from that though, in its current form as a PVP game on player-hosted servers, the lack of players is really unfortunate. Not too much testing in terms of fighting against other players could be done. That said though... I hosted my own server to have a look... and lagged in it. I also kept on getting stuck in invisible walls, no-clipping through terrain, and could not find out how to view the scoreboard. Also... I'm not quite sure why you're able to double jump and fly (apparently accompanied by the sound of a jetpack?) in this game, it doesn't seem to fit in with the game's theme. Perhaps some more optimisation needs to be done. There are 4 classes, though it doesn't seem possible to switch between them mid-game, and the guns are nothing special. A small selection of guns, and the lack of weapon customisation options do not help the cause at all - though to be clear, I do NOT want paid gun skins, but things like weapon mods - sights, mags, silencers, etc. The grenades are also confusing, they beep before... pouring yellow paint on the ground? Oddly enough, there is also no melee. At least, not that I've found.

Finally, the graphics look very poor, and definitely need a lot of work. The gun models, gloves, and the environment all could, and maybe should, be significantly improved. Everything looks blocky, and the animations don't quite look right. Most things are there, but they just don't look very nice. While graphics are not the be-all, end-all of a game, they do help... especially when the gameplay is sub-par and there is no plot.

Is it worth keeping an eye on and considering further down the track following significant updates if you really enjoy PVP FPS? Not really, at best, it'd be a generic PVP shooter. Is it worth purchasing right now, even if it's $5? Not in my opinion. I got it for free, gave a couple of copies to friends, and I feel like I wasted the bandwidth required to download it.. Game is dead. Don't buy it now. It was fun while it lasted but the party's over. Go home.

Lenny is dead

(XJX). This game is full of surprises and leaves you wanting more! With dark storylines and stimulating puzzles, you play this game not wanting to stop, you want to now whats aroud every corner, you will leave no object unchecked and no solution unattempted. The bonus features fill your hunger for more content and the achcivements will fill your sence of pride. So much greatness in this one game.

Alfa Romeo 155. The best magpie-nest-building-in-a-communist-turned-fascist-Latin-American-city-state I have ever played. This is a strange game, but worth five dollars. The extremely simple gameplay is you, as a magpie, picking junk up around the city and putting it in your nest. No opponents, no time limits, no predators, no danger of any kind. But that's fine, because the music is nice and the actual meat of the game is eavesdropping on citizens of Copoka as the situation in the city evolves. Worth five dollars if you care about revolutions and life under a possibly oppressive government.. A good game, but sadly, a underappreciated one. It's all about skill and team coordination. Do recommend.. Nice concept, team vs team in the skies. Air Buccaneers VS Vikings (Blue and Red) battling in different airships in the sky. Shoot down and destroy other airships using things like cannons.

This was an Indie Online game Greenlit by the community to get on Steam, it doesn't look great, is decent in terms of fun gameplay but missing a lot.

Since servers are always dead, there isn't bots and I didn't play for long I don't recommend this game.

3/10. This is an unusual entry in the Luxor series of "match-3" action/puzzle games. For some reason, they gave away the classical Egyptian graphics for very tacky, ugly neon line drawings and a much more arcade-like theme and gameplay.

This doesn't work very well and it's really a retrograde step. Furthermore, even though the game hit Steam in 2012, there's no widescreen in-game. Can't recommend.
